Guilty verdict for Sandy C Ranch

By Brenda Romanchuk
Staff Writer

As a result of misusing over $100,000 obtained through provincial grants, two men and a society were convicted in St. Paul Court of Queens Bench on June 20. David Petry, Larry Gavronsky and the Sandy C Ranch Christian Counselling Society were found guilty by a jury on charges of forgery, uttering false documents and fraud.

Justice McCallum scheduled sentencing for August 29 in Edmonton with Petry and Gavronsky liable to imprisonment for 14 years. According to Crown Prosecutor Don Demetrick, the society will likely be sentenced to a fine.

The convictions follow a lengthy, detailed police investigation which began in 1986 when neighbors of the society's ranch site complained that monies from provincial grants were, "being grossly mishandled and/or misused." Seventy-one people had signed the complaint against the Sandy C Ranch Christian Counselling Society which was supposedly building a wilderness ranch for young offenders near Sandy River, 70 km northwest of Bonnyville.

Situated on a recreational lease of 28 crown land acres, the ranch project began in 1983. To hire laborers to clear land and build cabins, the society received $100,000 in employment grants from the provincial government between 1984 and 1986.

Bonnyville MLA Ernie Isley was the Manpower Minister at that time and became an honorary director of the fledgling society. At one point during the trial, defence lawyer Wayne Kowalski indicated it was Isley's intervention which secured a grant for the society which had previously been denied by the Manpower department. An Alberta Report story reported Isley as saying he had supported the society's applications as he would for any worthy cause in the riding.

After three years and thousands of dollars, however, area residents became suspicious as the site was not developed as planned and wasn't open for young offenders. Questionable business practices with equipment, employees and supplies were also coming to light. Thus, the subsequent complaints, police investigation and criminal charges.

Testimony was given by a former employee who received a false record of employment from the society, a man who acted as the Manpower department monitor, and the two accused.

Petry, Gavronsky and the Sandy C Ranch Christian Counselling Society were found guilty of making a false document, a payroll book, and using it as if it were genuine. Gavronsky was additionally convicted of making a false document, a record of employment, with the intent that it should be used or acted upon as genuine. All three accused were found guilty of, "through the Alberta Environment Employment Program did by deceit, falsehood, or other fraudulent means, defraud Her Majesty the Queen in Right of the Province of Alberta as represented by the Minister of Manpower of monies in excess of one thousand dollars."

The three accused were found not guilty on the charge of using the false record of employment.

One other director of the society, foreman Roy Scott, will be tried separately at a later date.

Wolf predation discussed

By Robert Desjardins
Staff Writer

A wide-ranging agenda at the St. Paul Fish and Game club's monthly meeting Wednesday night at the Regional High School provided both entertainment and intense discussion for those in attendance.

The evening's highlight, Alberta Fish and Game Association representative George Page, incited much of the controversy with his introduction of the association's predator management program. The program is designed to subsidize trappers who help to control the wolf population, which is currently a major threat to dwindling populations of large hoofed mammals (especially elk). Funds for the subsidies are to come from the voluntary donation of association members province-wide.

Local association members approached the proposal cautiously, asking about various elements

Wolf predation discussed

of the plan Page had not covered. "Will you be paying for errant wolves from other areas, like B.C. or the North West Territories?" was one question. Another member wondered whether trappers, for whom the wolf trade is hardly lucrative in modern times, really know how to capture the animals at all.

Page acknowledged that there were some potential difficulties with the program. "But, something has to be done." The government, he noted, is helpless to act, due to misguided environmentalist pressures from outside the province. "Politicians have to respond when they get piles of letters."

The local Fish and Game Club gave Page no immediate commitment, but appeared to be preparing for further discussion on his proposal.

Page's address came after a separate presentation from John Gunson, a wildlife biologist with Alberta Forestry Lands and Wildlife. Gunson's talk, a lucid and informative discussion of the scientific facts surrounding wolf predation, covered such topics as pack size and hierarchy, diet, hunting tactics, and selection of prey. He also cited a clear connection between the reduction of large hoofed mammal populations and the predation of wolves (on top of many other factors).

In addition to Page and Gunson's presentations, Fish and Game members had the opportunity to view the presentation of certificates to recent graduates of the hunter education program.

Twenty-four students were presented with certificates: Fernand Pelchat, Jason Yake, Rene Renaud, Kevin Shtybel, Jamey Gervais, Rolland Renaud, Roger Lozeau, Raymond Paul, Cary Shtybel, Diane Demetrick, Richard Tremblay, Dennis Tymofichuk, Cory Elliott, Marcel Leroux, Jason Conrad, Mark Matatko, Betty Kelly, Bruce Kelly, Chad Grekul, Keith Pugh, Robert Pugh, Ryan Pugh, and Michael Gill.

Wayne Brown, one of the chief instructors of the program, commended them on their accomplishments.

Following the completion of these three items, as well as other regular club business, the meeting was adjourned. Wednesday's meeting marked the last club get-together for the summer.

Anyone interested in joining the club, though, is still welcome to get involved. You can obtain more information from Alberta

Forestry Lands and Wildlife, Fish and Wildlife Division, at 645-6313.

Elk Point set for Canada Day July 1st

A full day of fun-filled activities has been planned for Saturday, July 1 in Elk Point, as the entire community prepares to celebrate Canada's 122nd birthday.

Events get underway with a mammoth pancake breakfast sponsored by the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce, a half block north of 50 Ave. on 50 St., with local business persons flipping the flapjacks from 7:00 to 10:00 a.m.. Then it's time for the Bed Races, sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion, and held just one block over on 51 Street.

The Lioness Parade, with prizes awarded in nine categories, hits the street at 10:30 a.m., making its way east from the arena to 50 Street, then south on that thoroughfare to Railway Avenue, west one block, north to the Elks Hall, then west on 50 Ave. to 54 Street, north to 52 Ave., then east to 52 Street and north to the arena grounds.

Official opening ceremonies go at 12:00 noon on the Canada Day Stage north of the arena, with the arrival of the color party and messages from special visitors including MP Deborah Grey, MLA John Drobot, Town and County officials, and Miss Lakeland, Angel Ference. The afternoon will continue with stage entertainment, with the Bonnyville Skipperroos, Kehewin Teen Reelers, St. Paul vocalist Lisa Grekul and many more talented folk on the program. Old Time Fiddling and Red River Jig contests go at 3:30 p.m., so plan to take part.

For the sports minded, the afternoon will include adult games of horseshoes, a rolling pin toss, nail pounding competition and the ever-popular Tug-of-War, sponsored by the Elk Point Oilmen's Association. For the youngsters, the Oilettes have special activities planned which include a visit from face-painting and balloon-animal-making clowns, and a mini-carnival with games of skill at a nominal fee.

The afternoon winds up with a barbecue supper in the arena, served up by the Windsor Midgets Hockey Team at a reasonable sum, and evening activities include a beerfest and dance, getting underway at 7:00 p.m.

Plan to come to Elk Point and join in the fun!

Redroot pigweed, mustard, smartweed/lady's-thumb and hemp-nettle can't escape new REFINE® herbicide from Du Pont. In fact, REFINE gives untreatable control of 14 annual broadleaf weeds. And still lets you rotate from cereals to any crop the next year. Plus, it's safe to your crop. This year, prevent weed escapes. With REFINE.
